Ruble Griffin takes oath as Supreme Court justice

BY DENA BISNETTE
J. Ruble Griffin has been sworn in as a Mississippi State Supreme Court Justice.

Spectators overflowed off the lawn of the Hancock County Courthouse and into Main Street Tuesday morning to watch an installation ceremony for Griffin, who had served as one of the county's circuit court judges until he was nominated to the State Supreme Court by Governor William Allain two weeks ago.

Griffin will fill the unexpired term of Justice Neville Patterson, who has retired.

Prior to being selected for the State Supreme Court by Allain, Griffin had won the Democratic nomination for a post on the State Supreme Court in the June 3 election.

State Chief Justice Harry Grey Walker administered Griffin's oath of office Tuesday after various dignitaries commented on the Webster County native's qualifications, fitness for office and past accomplishments.

Among those addressing a crowd of about 200 people were former Governor, State Attorney General and State Supreme Court Justice J.P. Coleman, who said Griffin's strong suit has always been "good old horse sense."

"It is great to have great legal learning but it's also great to know where the ground is, and as Senator John Stennis used to say, where the people live. J. Ruble Griffin knows," Coleman said.

Also addressing the crowd were United States District Judges Dan M. Russell and Walter Gex III, both of Bay St. Louis. A member of Gex's former law firm, State Representative Walter James Phillips, presided over the ceremony.

Other speakers included Mississippi Circuit Judges Conference Chairman Judge Fred Wicker and Mississippi State Bar Association President-elect Judge Joseph R. Meadows.

The invocation was provided by the Rev. Nathan Barber of First Baptist Church and the benediction was provided by Monsignor James McGough of Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church.

Following his oath of office, Griffin's wife Ruth Lollar Griffin and daughter Martha Griffin Thompson assisted the new Supreme Court Justice in donning a new judge's robe.

School board to eye suit against city

BY DENA BISNETTE

A special meeting of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board has been called for 10:30 a.m. today at the superintendent's office at Bay Senior High School.

The agenda consists of one item—consideration of Board Attorney Lucien Gex's proposal that the school district file suit against the city of Bay St. Louis to force the release of $350,000 in funds for kindergarten classrooms.

The city council refused to turn over the money last month after the school board agreed to purchase classroom trailers. Bay Mayor Victor Frankiewicz said at the time that he believed the council's advertised resolution of intent for use of the money applied to new construction only.

At the school board's June 23 meeting, a motion to file suit against the city died for lack of a second. Two additional motions were defeated at the June 26 meeting.

Gex said Wednesday that the school board, even if borrowing in anticipation of tax revenues is found to be an alternative method of funding for the trailers, still feels the $350,000 is being illegally withheld.

"I say we do not need to borrow the money," Gex explained.

The attorney also stated that litigation may not mean there will be a delay in implementation of kindergarten.

"I anticipate that any suit the board may bring against the city will ask for some type of injunctive relief in order to get the school district an early hearing and allow the district to meet its obligations regarding kindergarten," Gex said.

Bay council repeats opposition to trailers

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis City Council has again expressed its opposition to the purchase of classroom trailers by the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District.

This time, the council discussed raising its offer of funding for a permanent building from $350,000 to $690,000 if that much is needed.

Council members Tuesday voted unanimously to adopt a second resolution calling for construction of a permanent classroom building.

Bay St. Louis Mayor Victor Frankiewicz Jr. said messages were sent to all of the school board members to invite them to the special meeting Tuesday afternoon, but none attended.

The mayor said Linda Penrose was the only school board member actually notified in person and added that she had told him she did not plan to meet with the council.

According to Frankiewicz, the council is continuing to contend that

Waveland takes no action on trailers

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen has adopted a resolution calling for election of all five members of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board.

Mayor John Longo Jr., however, is also calling for consolidation of the Bay St. Louis and Hancock County School districts.

The election resolution was originally the last section of a resolution supporting the Bay district's planned purchase of relocatable modular classrooms, also called classroom trailers, for Waveland Elementary School.

The election resolution also calls for a change in how school district revenues are handled. The resolution proposes that the district have the power to levy its own millage and collect taxes, two functions now handled through the city of Bay St. Louis.

The resolution was introduced to the aldermen by Board Attorney Lucien Gex, who is also attorney for the school board, at Tuesday night's meeting.

The aldermen refused to approve the sections of the resolution regarding the trailers after hearing from about 12 of the 16 people who attended the meeting.

Ward Three Alderman Louis Smolensky said he had been hearing much public comment against trailers.

"The people don't want it. I won't vote for anything my constituents don't want," he said.

However, Smolensky said he favored the idea of electing all five board members and asked for a motion to notify the Bay St. Louis city council and the school board of Waveland's desire for better representation.

The motion received unanimous approval.

According to Longo, the city has

Holiday schedules reported

Garbage collection in Waveland will be adjusted due to the Fourth of July holiday, but Bay St. Louis schedules will not be affected, city officials report.

Waveland garbage routes usually run on Fridays will be collected this week on Thursday and collections usually made on Thursday were made on Wednesday, according to City Clerk Arcelyn Dastugue.

Dry trash collection is cancelled this week, she said. Waveland City Hall offices will be closed Friday, July 4 and will reopen Monday, July 7, she added.

Waveland Police and Fire Department personnel will work normal schedules through the long weekend, with a Utility Department crew available for emergencies, Dastugue said.

In Bay St. Louis, city hall coordinator Laurie Byrd said all city hall offices will be closed Friday through Sunday, but garbage collections by Gulf Coast Waste Disposal are ex-

Doctor retains academy membership

Dr. Bertin C. Chevis of Bay St. Louis has completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors.

The academy formerly was called the American Academy of General Practice.

The requirements call for members to complete a minimum of 150 hours of accredited continuing medical study every three years.

The academy was the first national medical group to require members to keep up with medical progress through continuing education.

Because of their broad training, family physicians have the "know how" to treat approximately 90 percent of all human illnesses.

The academy, founded in 1947 and headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in the establishment of continuing education.

Besides maintaining continuing education standards for its members, the academy strives to increase the number of family physicians available to serve the public in the future.

Its continuing education program also provides a major basis of eligibility for academy members seeking recertification in the specialty of family practice.

Hancock School Board accepts amended budget, pay scale

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County School Board has accepted its amended budget for 1986-87 and its salary scale for the 1986-87 school term.

Both were approved in a special Monday morning board meeting, most of which consisted of an executive session used to discuss personnel and salary scales.

According to Superintendent of Education Terrell Randolph, the amended budget totaled $8,411,772. The original budget totaled about $2 million less at $6,759,756.

Randolph said the amount of the amended budget resulted partially from an increase in revenues related to Hurricanes Elena and Juan.

About $596,000 was received from insurance payments to the district for damages to Hancock North Central School and Gulfview Elementary School after Hurricane Elena.

An additional $30,000 was provided through collection of utility taxes dating back several years, a 16th section timber sale, and an anticipated increase in ad valorem tax collections, Randolph explained.

The district also had a $100,000 surplus on construction of kindergarten classrooms at Gulfview.

The district is expected to have a $977,000 balance at the end of the current fiscal year. After current obligations are met and the district receives State Department of Education reimbursement funds on busses purchased for the kindergarten program, the balance should total about $164,000, the superintendent said.

The salary scales were adopted after a half-hour executive session.

Annual salaries range from $16,161 for no experience to $20,011 for 14 years' experience for an educator with a bachelor's degree; $17,061 with no experience to $21,861 for 16 years with a master's degree; $17,961 for no experience to $23,486 for 17 years with a specialist's degree; and $18,861 with no experience to $24,811 for 17 years with a doctoral degree.

Annual local pay supplements by degree type include bachelor's, $1,286; master's, $1,386; specialist's, $1,486; and doctorate, $1,586.

The board meets again July 7.

Waveland approves beachfront projects

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Waveland Board of Aldermen has voted unanimously to approve two beachfront improvement measures.

The board met with Jeff Taylor of South Mississippi Planning and Development District, Jerry Mitchell of Bureau of Marine Resources and Dorothy Sutton and Ray Kidd of the Hancock County Beachfront Technical Advisory Council Tuesday.

The board accepted the council's sand beach master plan, which includes shore protection measures as well as recreational development of target areas of the beachfront.

The plan has already been accepted by the Hancock County Board of Supervisors and is to be presented to the Bay St. Louis City Council July 7.

In addition, the aldermen have agreed to hire a consultant for a matching grant project funded by Bureau of Marine Resources.

The agreement is subject to review by Board Attorney Lucien

Gex and Mitchell, but the firm of Ray Eaton and Associates of Jackson has been selected to prepare a project scope for proposed development.

Mitchell said the project is expected to concentrate on additional development of two areas currently used for recreational purposes, the beach at the head of Coleman Avenue and the Garfield Ladner Memorial Pier about a block away.

The city's share of the project is 25 percent of the projected cost, or $4,500.

In other business Tuesday, the board:

—Accepted the motor vehicle assessment for 1986-87;

—Authorized Mayor John Longo Jr. and Ward Two Alderman Bob Hubbard to represent the city on the recently formed Gulf Coast Council of Governments; and —Presented service awards to long-time employees of the city's water and gas department.

The board meets again July 16 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Alexander appointed emergency circuit judge for tri-county

By ELLIS CUEVAS

Frank Alexander of Long Beach was appointed Tuesday afternoon as Circuit Court judge for the Second Judicial District on an emergency basis.

Alexander, a former Harrison County Chancery judge, was sworn in Tuesday by Mississippi Supreme Court Justice Harry Walker after a request was made by Circuit Court Judge Kosta Vlahos, who became senior judge on Tuesday for the tri-county area of Hancock, Harrison and Stone.

The vacancy was created Tuesday when Circuit Court Judge J. Ruble Griffin was installed to fill the unexpired term of Southern District Supreme Court Justice Neville Patterson.

Griffin, the Democratic nominee for supreme court justice was appointed by Gov. Bill Allain when Justice Patterson announced his retirement.

Vlahos' request in a letter to Justice Walker asked for the appointment of Frank Alexander to the position because he is retired as a Chancery judge and the crush of criminal and civil cases and grand juries scheduled the next six months.

Terms of court are scheduled in Bay St. Louis, Gulfport and Biloxi during July.

The appointment of Alexander was made in Gulfport Tuesday afternoon by Justice Walker who had held installation ceremonies in Bay St. Louis earlier in the day for Justice Griffin.

Vlahos and Circuit Court Judge James Thomas, who hold two of the three positions in the three-county judicial district, were on hand for the brief ceremony.

Griffin's term as circuit court judge was to end this year, but could go beyond because the June 3 primary elections for chancery and circuit court judges were halted by a federal judge pending a full hearing whether Mississippi's judicial district lines are drawn to dilute black voting strength.

Gov. Allain is to select a replacement for circuit court judge from a 20-member judicial nominating committee who will review applicants.

Alexander's appointment is until Gov. Allain announces the interim appointment.

AAA tells "good news/bad news" on gas prices

JACKSON—The average price of self-service unleaded gasoline in Mississippi has increased 6 percent since Memorial Day but remains 24 percent below Fourth of July last year.

A AAA fuel gauge survey shows that motorists buying gas over this Fourth of July can expect to pay an average of $.964 per gallon for self-service unleaded gas in the state; 30.8 cents less than the prices reported last year.

It's normal for gasoline prices to increase during the busy summer driving season, AAA reports; the increase occurs every summer as motorists drive more, using more gas.

Classroom issue should be settled by compromise

The issue of whether to, or not to purchase modular units for classrooms for kindergarten has apparently reached a point where a compromise has to be made.

A special meeting has been called by Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School System for 10:30 a.m. this morning to consider filing a law suit against the City of Bay St. Louis to release money to purchase modular units for kindergarten classrooms.

The Bay St. Louis Mayor and Council on Tuesday passed a resolution requesting the school board of trustees "...to cancel any and all orders for trailers or modular units..."

Later on Wednesday, Waveland's Mayor and Board of Aldermen passed a resolution to have the state legislature pass a law to have all school trustees elected, in addition "...that the board of trustees be authorized to levy and collect taxes for the operation of the said school district..."

An apparent disagreement revolves around whether the school trustees have the right to make purchase of modular units (trailers) based on a legal advertisement by the City of Bay St. Louis to borrow $350,000 for construction of new classrooms.

If this matter ends up in court, it could take a long time to settle, not to mention the additional costs to all parties involved, which in turn will be passed on to the property owners.

A possible compromise could be in all parties agreeing to appeal for a decision from the State Attorney General's office as to whether modular units could be used for the classrooms under the circumstances.

If a favorable opinion is issued, modular units could be used on a temporary basis, with all parties agreeing to place top priority on a long-range building plan for the school system.

If the opinion from the Attorney General is unfavorable in the use of modular units, then emphasis should be placed on the finding of alternate classroom space until new construction can be completed as fast as possible.

This newspaper has expressed its opposition numerous times to the use of modular units (trailers) for classrooms, yet when an impasse is reached on a matter, there are times when a compromise has to be reached.

We all have to think about our children.

THE PRICE OF LIBERTY

It was 200 years ago that 56 new Americans pledged their "lives, their fortunes, and their sacred honor" in support of their "Declaration of Independence" from the British Crown.

What better time than at the nation's celebration of its "Independence Day" to remember the courage and commitment of those new Americans and to reflect on the price they paid for freedom—their lives and ours.

What kind of men were they, and what happened to them?

Twenty-five of the signers of the Declaration of Independence were lawyers or jurists; 11 were merchants, nine were farmers or large plantation owners.

Five signers were captured by the British as traitors. At least a dozen of the 56 had their homes ransacked and burned. Two lost their sons in the Continental Army and another had two sons captured. Several took part in battles of the American Revolution and some were wounded.

Richard Stockton returned to New Jersey in the fall of 1776 to find the state overrun by the British. His home was destroyed and he was captured. He was so badly treated in prison that his health was ruined and he died before the war ended.

At the Battle of Yorktown Thomas Nelson Jr. noted that the British General Cornwallis had taken over the family home for his headquarters.

Nelson urged General George Washington to open fire on his own home. The home was destroyed. Nelson later died bankrupt.

John Hart was driven from his wife's bedside as she was near death. His 13 children fled for their lives; his fields and grist mill were laid waste.

Eluding capture, he often slept in forests and caves. When he was able to return home he found that his wife had died and his children were gone.

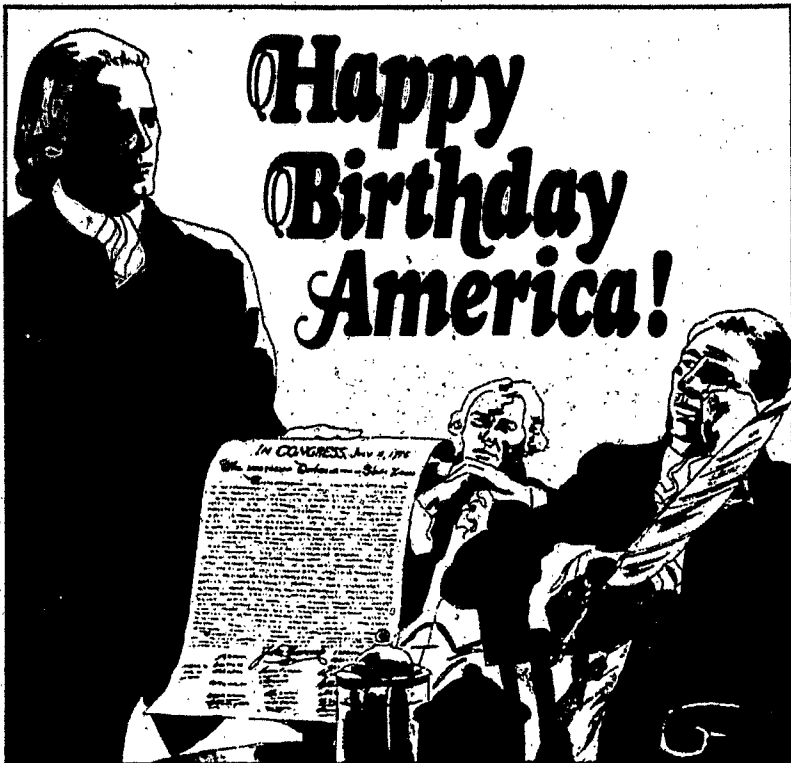

These sacrifices are typical of the price the 56 signers of the Declaration of Independence paid for their freedom. These men were not wild-eyed rabble rousers or fanatics. They were articulate men of means and education. They had security, but they valued liberty more.

Standing tall and unwavering, they pledged: "For the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of the Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor."

They gave us an independent America.

It is up to us to keep it.

STATUE OF LIBERTY
RESTORATION
CELEBRATION
JULY 4, 1986

Let us dedicate the day, Independence Day, to those dauntless soldiers at Valley Forge, to the courageous, far-sighted leaders who signed the Declaration of Independence, and to the hundreds of thousands of others who helped form our history, winning for us our freedom and our liberty, creating our precious way of life. On this two hundred and tenth American birthday celebration, we wish you and yours a glorious fourth of July holiday!

Constitutional review methods

Most Mississippians are aware that Governor Allain has appointed a Commission of 350 people to study Mississippi's 1890 Constitution and recommend needed changes.

Many Mississippians also know that the Constitutional Study Commission's work is nearing completion. Given the status of the deliberations, the question arises as to what happens once the Commission completes its study.

After issues have been openly debated before the entire body, the Commission plans to complete a report to Governor Allain. This report will contain all the specific recommendations for change along with a suggestion on the route to follow in achieving them.

After Governor Allain receives the report, he has several options. One path the Governor may choose is revision by amendment. This method, the most frequent form of constitutional change, requires submitting each proposed amendment separately. The Legislature would be required to approve these by two-thirds (2/3) vote and then the people would vote on each separately. If commission recommendations are any indication of the number of amendments which might be approved by the Legislature, the people might see a ballot with over 200 amendments.

Obviously, the amendment process is a long, cumbersome one since it would require detailed study of each amendment by members of the Legislature. This might not be possible under the normal time pressure of a legislative session.

A method sometimes used in other states for constitutional revision is that of legislative initiative. Under this process, people have the power to change their constitutions by gathering a required number of signatures on petitions supporting amendments.

This right to create or change existing laws at the polls was first given to Mississippians in 1914 in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Yet, it was taken away in 1922 when the State Supreme Court overturned the provision. (The Constitutional Study Commission has approved a recommendation to return this power to Mississippi's people). This process would ensure that people voted on issues even if the Legislature was reluctant to address them.

Still, the initiative process is as lengthy and complex as the normal amendment route since each recommendation would be voted on separately.

Another popular avenue for constitutional revision is the convention. This procedure is most conducive to complete overhaul of a constitution, and the one an increasing number of Mississippians favor.

The Framers of the United States Constitution used this method, as did the authors of the 1890 State Constitution.

Constitutional conventions are usually called by the State Legislature which establishes the procedures for delegate selection. The most probable structure would include 122 elected delegates, one from each of Mississippi's House of Representatives district.

Legislators wishing to serve on the convention would be required to run in special elections along with all other candidates.

Once the convention was elected and members had completed their work, the voters of Mississippi would pass judgment on the final product.

These conventions usually work on an outline or set of recommendations given to them by the Legislature or Governor. In this case, the set of recommendations might be the Constitutional Study Commission's report to Governor Allain.

The experience with constitutional revision in other southern states has been a good one. Of the eleven (11) former Confederate states, Mississippi remains the only one which has not given its Constitution major revision in the last 20 years.

Whatever method is chosen, it is certain that constitutional revision of some kind is needed in Mississippi. This state stands on the brink of a new era. A new Constitution would propel us into this new era.

Quotables by CUEVAS

Modern history was made in Hancock County in several ways on Tuesday with the installation of J. Ruble Griffin as a Mississippi State Supreme Court Justice.

It was the first time a person had taken the oath of office to such a high position in our county.

The number of past and present U.S. federal judges, state supreme court justices, chancery court judges, county judges and circuit court judges was the greatest to have ever been gathered for an event in our county.

At the reception held for Justice Griffin at the Clement R. Bontemps American Legion Post No. 139 in Bay St. Louis, were the most people we have ever seen at one time in the building.

Officials from throughout the state of Mississippi were on hand at the installation of Justice Griffin, a resident of Bay St. Louis.

Just think, Hancock County now has U.S. District Judge Dan M. Russell Jr., U.S. District Judge Walter Gex III, and Mississippi State Supreme Court Justice J. Ruble Griffin.

We feel it is a great honor to have men of our county in such high positions.

What else can we say?

It has been a very long time since we have seen the Hancock County Courthouse grounds as nice as they were on Tuesday.

Several trustees from the Hancock County Jail did a very good job in helping prepare the grounds for the installation ceremonies of Mississippi State Supreme Court Justice J. Ruble Griffin.

We realize that normally the only time inmates have anything published about them is when they are arrested or sentenced for something they have done wrong according to society.

This is one time we feel each of the trustees who helped should be commended for a job well done.

Tomorrow will be the big day for the 100th anniversary celebration of the Statue of Liberty, a project which has been in the works for several years. The festivities are to be for several days.

Locally the best 4th of July decorations we have seen thus far are at the Hancock County Tax Collector-Assessor's offices on Main Street in Bay St. Louis.

The staff of Eddie Murtagh always does a fine job in decorating the windows of the building for the many seasons of the year.

We do have to say the 4th of July decorations appear to us to be the best yet.

Keep up the good work, folks.

The parishioners of St. Rose Catholic Church will celebrate their 60th annual fair.

The theme for this year's event will be 'homecoming'.

Events will include a dance tonight at the Disabled Veterans Hall on Union Street.

No events are scheduled for July 4th.

The official opening for the fair is scheduled for 7 p.m. Saturday of the concession stands, booths, and sale of seafood specialties and other foods.

A softball tournament will begin at noon Saturday at the St. Rose field and continue through Sunday.

The tournament and fair will begin at noon on Sunday.

Organizers are hoping for a large turnout for the St. Rose Fair over the weekend.

St. Rose Catholic Church is located on Necaise Avenue in Bay St. Louis.

Congratulations are in order for Dana Favre on being selected 1st runnerup in the Mississippi Deep Sea Fishing Rodeo queen contest Saturday.

The fishing rodeo will be held today through Sunday in Gulfport.

The salt and fresh water rodeo draws fishermen and fishermen from through the states and offers some very nice awards for the winners.

In case you are not a fisherman, you may just want to take the family to view all the 'big ones' caught in the rodeo.

We wish everyone luck, and hope they caught the record fish.

Don't forget Our Lady of the Gulf Catholic Church's 2nd Annual Crab Festival which begins today through Sunday.

The four-day event offers all types of foods, crafts, live entertainment, and arts and crafts booths.

We know the foods were very good last year.

PVTHILLMAN

Army Private Christopher S. Hillman, son of Donald F. Hillman of Rural Route 3, Pass Christian, and Sharon A. Hillman of 215 Grecian Trail, Newnan, Ga., has completed one station unit training (OSUT) at the U.S. Army Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

OSUT is a 12-week period which combines basic combat training and advanced individual training.

The training included weapons qualifications, squad tactics, patrolling, landmine warfare, field communications and combat operations. Completion of this course qualified the soldier as a light-weapons infantryman and as an indirect-fire crewman.

Soldiers were taught to perform any of the duties in a rifle or mortar squad.

His wife, Elisabeth, is the daughter of Guy A. and Glenna S. Bennett of 722 S. Pearl Circle, Brandon, Fla.

Forestry Commission to implement 'no checks' policy

A new policy with regard to payments by check to the State Forestry Commission for services rendered under the agency's various programs was announced this week by State Forester Robert S. "Sid" Moss.

The new policy simply states that effective July 1, 1986 the Commission won't accept any more personal checks for the purchase of tree seedlings; in payment for timber improvement work done by Commission personnel.

According to Moss the policy change was prompted by a change in accounting procedures recommended recently by the agency's internal auditor.

After July 1, the commission will require that payments to it be made only via money order, cashier's check or certified check.

Moss said the stringent new policy was caused by a "double whammy" affect on the agency's budget of having to re-process checks and/or not being able to collect on them at all.

"Under the circumstances we are having to squeeze every good, useable dollar we can out of budgeted monies and the increased volume of bouncing checks inherent in the expanded Forest Resource Development Program was causing us significant budgetary problems.

Moss said he felt like most of his agency's clients would have no real problem with the change in payment method. "They'll have plenty of advance time to get these payments together in the accepted manner," he noted.

Offshore service company cancels quarterly dividend

Tidewater Inc.'s board of directors has voted to suspend payment of the quarterly dividend on the company's common stock and declared the regular quarterly dividend on the company's convertible adjustable preferred stock.

Tidewater's directors also indicated that if industry conditions do not improve they will consider the suspension of future preferred dividends at the next payment date.

The quarterly dividend declared is $1.50 per share on the 102,450 shares outstanding of the company's convertible adjustable preferred stock, series 494.

The dividend is calculated based upon the dividend rate for the quarterly period beginning May 1, 1986 of 6.0 percent per annum on $100.00 per share.

The dividend is payable on August 1, 1986 to shareholders of record as of June 30, 1986.

SHED FIRE—Bay St. Louis Firefighter Ronald Collins returns a hose to his colleagues on the ground after cooling a partially burned shed roof behind a residence at 264 Washington Road Monday morning. The fire, which occurred at about 10:20 a.m., was discovered by six-year-old J.R. Farrell, who spotted smoke as the vehicle he was riding in passed the structure. Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said the fire started when electrical wires leading to the shed short-circuited. The fire did not endanger any nearby structures because it was extinguished before gasoline and acetylene stored in the shed could ignite, Lizana added. (Staff photo by Dena Bisnette)

ARSON INVESTIGATED—Bay St. Louis Firefighter Terry McCrory checks for hot spots after a fire was under control on Washington Road near US-90 on Tuesday. Bay Fire Chief Andrew Lizana said the fire's origin was definitely arson in the abandoned residence which is the estate of Mrs. Mabel Favre Curet. A motorist notified Charlie Pernicaro, service station owner, who called the fire department. The fire was contained to a small section of the back porch of the house. (Staff photo by Ellis Cuevas).

Constitutional Commission submits recommendations

A SPECIAL REPORT
BY THE

CONSTITUTIONAL
STUDY COMMISSION STAFF

The joint Committee on Municipalities and County Government of Governor Allain's Constitutional Study Commission has completed its preliminary recommendations affecting local government.

On at least three points, the Municipalities and County Committee proposed to add a "breath of new life" to Mississippi's obsolete Constitution of 1890.

Their first step was to reorganize all sections in the current Constitution pertaining to counties and municipalities, placing them in one article, appropriately titled "Local Government." Currently, there are clauses concerning local government scattered throughout the Constitution.

The next major proposal concerned the creation of a new office in the executive structure of county government.

The committee suggested the new position of county administrator, a person who would work with county boards of supervisors as the chief executive of the local government.

The county administrator would oversee the various departments of the county, insuring that county funds were spent wisely on the appropriate items. He would also serve as a liaison between his county and the business community.

Several Mississippi counties have already hired county administrators and others are examining the possibility. In all these counties, this is an appointed position.

The proposed article would leave it to the Legislature to decide whether the county administrator would be appointed or elected.

Those who support the election of the county administrator assert that the chief executive of a county needs political independence from the supervisors. This would be insured by the direct election.

Those who support the appointment of the county administrator see him as having no connection with the political scheme of things. He would be merely an administrator, a person whose job was to accomplish certain organizational and clerical tasks as assigned by the supervisors.

The committee's third proposal concerned home rule, the concept whereby local governments have the power to do anything not specifically forbidden by law.

The committee proposed that home rule be granted to Mississippi's 82 counties and more than 200 municipalities.

Most of the controversy over home rule involves the question of taxation and how much tax power should be extended to the counties and municipalities.

That issue was put before the full 350-member Constitutional Revision Commission at their May meeting.

There, the group decided that only those taxation powers specifically granted through legislation should be given to local governments.

Supporters of the commission's ruling say home rule taxing authority erodes the state's revenue base and can lead to irresponsible, local spending plus excessive local taxation without state financial oversight.

The opponents of the commission's decision argue that local government should be given great latitude in determining local tax and expenditure policies.

Local officials, they assert, are the ones closest to the people and are thereby in a better position to evaluate the financial capabilities and requirements of their constituencies.

The full Constitutional Study Commission meets again in Jackson on June 25. It will address these local government issues as well as the sections concerning the structure of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches at the state level.

WRITER PROFILE

Eudora Welty recalls her friend and colleague Katherine Anne Porter in an "American Masters" documentary about the Texas writer.

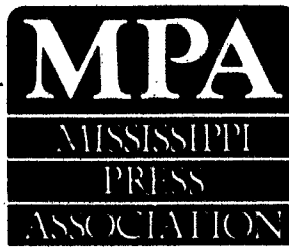

"American Masters," the anthology series of documentaries profiling the lives and achievements of some of America's native-born and adopted masters in the creative arts, pays tribute to Porter at 9 p.m., Monday, July 7.

"American Masters" can be seen on Mississippi Educational Television.

This film portrait of Porter, who wrote "Ship of Fools" and "Noon Wine," focuses on her short stories set in the farming country of central Texas. The program interweaves dramatizations of three of her short stories—"The Grave," "The Witness" and "The Circus," starring Paul Winfield and Bill Irwin—in a unique examination of the effect of one's environment on the creative process.

The program also features interviews with Robert Penn Warren, her nephew Paul Porter and her biographer Joan Givner.

MPC prepares for hurricane season

When Hurricane Elena blew ashore last Labor Day, George East and about 1,000 other Mississippi Power Company workers were ready to do battle with Mother Nature's fury.

And, as Mississippi Power Company's general manager of electric engineering and operations, East is getting geared up in case other hurricanes aim their winds at the Mississippi Gulf Coast this year.

"Hurricane season began June 1, and we began reviewing our hurricane procedures with our employees," East said. "This helps them understand what to expect if we do have a storm."

Hurricane Elena knocked out electricity to more than 80,000 of MPC's customers last year, costing the Gulfport-based utility more than $11 million in equipment and restoration costs.

But the utility put into action a comprehensive restoration plan that enabled it to restore service in just six and one-half days, a record for the utility after a major hurricane.

"There isn't anything we can't do to stop a hurricane, but we can work year-round at being prepared," East said. "Most of our 23-county service area is susceptible to heavy damage from a major storm, so our hurricane procedures help to get the electricity flowing quickly and safely after a storm."

The procedures include safety precautions and detailed instructions for personnel to follow before, during and after the storm. The company also checks its stock and condition of equipment, tools and vital power restoration equipment such as two-way radios.

Arrangements have also been made for assistance from other utilities if there is heavy storm damage to electrical facilities.

Mississippi Power Company, a member of The Southern Company, would first call on its sister utilities—Alabama, Georgia and Gulf power companies—for additional crews.

If these were unavailable, Mississippi Power Company could draw from other neighboring utilities under mutual assistance contracts.

"During restoration work, our philosophy is to get the critical customers on first, if possible," said East, a veteran of hurricanes Camille in 1969 and Frederick in 1979.

"That includes the local civil defense headquarters, hospitals, police stations, sewerage lift stations and other vital public services."

In 1970, Mississippi Power Company was presented with the Edison Award by the Edison Electric Institute for efficiency in restoring the electric service to southeast Mississippi after Hurricane Camille.

"We look carefully at our procedures after every major storm to improve on our execution," East said. "And regrettably, we probably have more experience in hurricane restoration than most other utilities."

"All-in-all, I'd just as soon never face another hurricane. But that's not realistic, so every year we prepare for the worst and hope for the best."

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS—Among the many officials attending the installation of J. Ruble Griffin as Mississippi State Supreme Court Justice on Tuesday were United States District Judge and Mrs. Walter Gex III of Diamondhead. Constitutional Commission submits recommendations

BY THE
CONSTITUTIONAL
STUDY COMMISSION STAFF

The joint Committee on Municipalities and County Government of Governor Allain's Constitutional Study Commission has completed its preliminary recommendations affecting local government.

On at least three points, the Municipalities and County Committee proposed to add a "breath of new life" to Mississippi's obsolete Constitution of 1890.

Their first step was to reorganize all sections in the current Constitution pertaining to counties and municipalities, placing them in one article, appropriately titled "Local Government." Currently, there are clauses concerning local government scattered throughout the Constitution.

The next major proposal concerned the creation of a new office in the executive structure of county government.

The committee suggested the new position of county administrator, a person who would work with county boards or supervisors as the chief executive of the local government.

The county administrator would oversee the various departments of the county, insuring that county funds were spent wisely on the appropriate items. He would also serve as a liaison between his county and the business community.

Several Mississippi counties have already hired county administrators and others are examining the possibility. In all these counties, this is an appointed position.

The proposed article would leave it to the Legislature to decide whether the county administrator would be appointed or elected.

Those who support the election of the county administrator assert that the chief executive of a county needs political independence from the supervisors. This would be insured by the direct election.

Those who support the appointment of the county administrator see him as having no connection with the political scheme of things. He would be merely an administrator, a person whose job was to accomplish certain organizational and clerical tasks as assigned by the supervisors.

The committee's third proposal concerned home rule, the concept whereby local governments have the power to do anything not specifically forbidden by law.

The committee proposed that home rule be granted to Mississippi's 82 counties and more than 200 municipalities.

Most of the controversy over home rule involves the question of taxation and how much tax power should be extended to the counties and municipalities.

That issue was put before the full 350-member Constitutional Revision Commission at their May meeting.

There, the group decided that only those taxation powers specifically granted through legislation should be given to local governments.

Supporters of the commission's ruling say home rule taxing authority erodes the state's revenue base and can lead to irresponsible, local spending plus excessive local taxation without state financial oversight.

The opponents of the commission's decision argue that local government should be given great latitude in determining local tax and expenditure policies.

Local officials, they assert, are the ones closest to the people and are thereby in a better position to evaluate the financial capabilities and requirements of their constituencies.

The full Constitutional Study Commission meets again in Jackson on June 25. It will address these local government issues as well as the sections concerning the structure of the Executive, Legislative and Judicial Branches at the state level.

WRITER PROFILE

Eudora Welty recalls her friend and colleague Katherine Anne Porter in an "American Masters" documentary about the Texas writer.

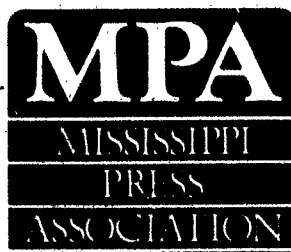

"American Masters," the anthology series of documentaries profiling the lives and achievements of some of America's native-born and adopted masters in the creative arts, pays tribute to Porter at 9 p.m., Monday, July 7.

"American Masters" can be seen on Mississippi Educational Television.

This film portrait of Porter, who wrote "Ship of Fools" and "Noon Wine," focuses on her short stories set in the farming country of central Texas. The program interweaves dramatizations of three of her short stories—"The Grave," "The Witness" and "The Circus," starring Paul Winfield and Bill Irwin—in a unique examination of the effect of one's environment on the creative process.

The program also features interviews with Robert Penn Warren, her nephew Paul Porter and her biographer Joan Givner.

MPC prepares for hurricane season

When Hurricane Elena blew ashore last Labor Day, George East and about 1,000 other Mississippi Power Company workers were ready to do battle with Mother Nature's fury.

And, as Mississippi Power Company's general manager of electric engineering and operations, East is getting geared up in case other hurricanes aim their winds at the Mississippi Gulf Coast this year.

"Hurricane season began June 1, and we began reviewing our hurricane procedures with our employees," East said. "This helps them understand what to expect if we do have a storm."

Hurricane Elena knocked out electricity to more than 80,000 of MPC's customers last year, costing the Gulfport-based utility more than $11 million in equipment and restoration costs.

But the utility put into action a comprehensive restoration plan that enabled it to restore service in just six and one-half days, a record for the utility after a major hurricane.

"There isn't anything we can do to stop a hurricane, but we can work year-round at being prepared," East said. "Most of our 23-county service area is susceptible to heavy damage from a major storm, so our hurricane procedures help to get the electricity flowing quickly and safely after a storm."

The procedures include safety precautions and detailed instructions for personnel to follow before, during and after the storm. The company also checks its stock and condition of equipment, tools and vital power restoration equipment such as two-way radios.

Arrangements have also been made for assistance from other utilities if there is heavy storm damage to electrical facilities.

Mississippi Power Company, a member of The Southern Company, would first call on its sister utilities—Alabama, Georgia and Gulf power companies—for additional crews.

If these were unavailable, Mississippi Power Company could draw from other neighboring utilities under mutual assistance contracts.

"During restoration work, our philosophy is to get the critical customers on first, if possible," said East, a veteran of hurricanes Camille in 1969 and Frederick in 1979.

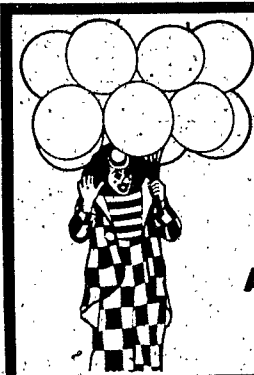

"That includes the local civil defense headquarters, hospitals, police stations, sewerage lift stations and other vital public services."

In 1970, Mississippi Power Company was presented with the Edison Award by the Edison Electric Institute for efficiency in restoring the electric service to southeast Mississippi after Hurricane Camille.

"We look carefully at our procedures after every major storm to improve on our execution," East said. "And regretfully, we probably have more experience in hurricane restoration than most other utilities."

"All-in-all, I'd just as soon never face another hurricane. But that's not realistic, so every year we prepare for the worst and hope for the best."

Trailers.....

no power to take action regarding the trailers anyway.

Waveland's zoning ordinance already contains an exception clause allowing classroom trailers, Longo said.

Some trailers are presently used at Waveland Elementary School and St. Clare Catholic School.

If trailers are purchased, the city probably will not be able to keep them from being placed at Waveland Elementary.

In addition, the city has no power to change the school board's decision, Longo added.

Longo said the school district is an independent political entity and its decisions can not be overruled by other entities.

Gex said Longo's opinion is correct from a legal standpoint.

Ward One Alderman Barbara Rappold proposed, in addition to separate adoption of the election provisions, that the board offer the school district any needed assistance in finding temporary classrooms.

St. Rose de Lima School has been proposed as a temporary classroom facility, but according to Chamber of Commerce Education Committee Chairman Charles Benvenuti, the school board's inspectors rejected the facility.

He said the inspectors used were two principals and retired Superintendent of Education J.D. McCullough.

The board approved allowing the city's building and utility inspectors to assist in an additional inspection of St. Rose or other buildings if requested.

Under the current system of selecting school board members, two elected school board members represent Waveland and territory that is included in the school district but lies outside the Waveland city limits.

The other three are appointed members from Bay St. Louis. In addition, school district tax collections are filtered through the city.

Both elected members of the board are currently from Waveland, but Longo believes that Waveland residents could be left with a tax burden and no representation in the future if two people from the outside territory are elected.

Longo added Wednesday morning after the board voted unanimously to approve the election provision that he believes it is time for both the Bay and county districts to consider consolidation.

"We're going with the unit system, so let's go with consolidation too. What we need is one good school between Bay St. Louis and Pearlinton.

You could build a nice school for about $2 million, and never mind wasting $8 million or so between the districts," the mayor said.

He suggested Lower Bay Road as a possible location.

He said he is aware that the consolidation expected with implementation of the Education Reform Act of 1982 has been delayed, but feels that the issue will come up again.

"Consolidation is coming. They're going to make us do it, so let's move ahead and be progressive."

"Those people who came to the meeting last night wanted progress," Longo added.

Longo said he reached his conclusions concerning consolidation after listening to the comments of one of the people at the meeting, an elementary school teacher named Lorraine Strom.

Strom described noise problems involved in teaching in trailers, but also pointed out that "the children aren't coming up in these discussions at all."

She explained that so-called temporary trailers often continue to be used, although for different classes, delaying action on permanent building programs.

Another teacher addressing the board Tuesday night, Judy Barrett, said, "Help us, please, to stop being held together with tape and band-aids. We need a building program so badly. Please don't give anyone an excuse to delay it."

The Bay school board has called a meeting for 10:30 a.m. today. The sole item on the agenda Wednesday when the meeting was announced was a lawsuit aimed at forcing the city of Bay St. Louis to release $350,000 committed for the construction of kindergarten classroom.

The city council has refused to release the funds to the district on the grounds that installation of the modular classroom units does not constitute construction and does not comply with the city's advertised intent for use of the money.

Council.....

the installation of classroom trailers does not constitute new construction and is therefore not consistent with the advertised intent for use of the $350,000.

The city has agreed to release enough of the funds to pay for purchase of three buses, architect's fees connected with the design of a permanent building the school board rejected and classroom furniture.

The resolution states, however, that the council members "believe that the public at large is overwhelmingly in favor of permanent buildings and is opposed to temporary structures."

It further states that the council is opposed to a school board proposal to advertise for about $130,000 in anticipation of taxes in order to pay for the trailers.

The council resolution requests that orders for trailers be cancelled, temporary classroom space be found, and negotiations with Architect Jules LaGarde be resumed to reduce the price of a permanent building designed for the Waveland Elementary School campus but rejected by the board.

The resolution also points out that the school district, even without purchasing trailers, "faces cash flow problems until taxes are collected beginning in January 1987" and, "if trailers are purchased as proposed, expected to cost in excess of $130,000, the school district may become insolvent before the end of the fiscal year."

The city council meets again Tuesday at 7 p.m. at city hall. The school board has called a special meeting for 10:30 a.m. today.

RED GLARE

Filmmaker Nancy Yasecko recalls what it was like "Growing Up with Rockets" during the 1950s and '60s in the rocket boom town of Cape Canaveral, Fla., at 9 p.m., Wednesday, July 9, on Mississippi ETV.

"When a rocket went off," she remembers, "everyone would run outside—day or night, dressed or not—and yell, 'missile, missile.'"

Yasecko and her family moved to Florida in 1965 when her father became project director of one of America's missile programs. Cape Canaveral had just been chosen as the site for missile testings and launches and the town had not yet developed.

As families moved in from all over the country, the area was filled with the excitement connected with America's space program.

Can you hazard a guess as to who started the tradition of the Fourth of July picnic buffet or outdoor feast in celebration of the holiday?

It's said that it was old Ben Franklin himself, that innovator of innovators, who hit upon the idea one sultry summer day in Paris, where he was representing our country as ambassador.

Faced with the task of offering hospitality in his country's name on Independence Day - and faced as well with more guests than his Paris domicile or entertaining budget could possibly accommodate at a lavish seated banquet, that resourceful and thrifty soul offered his guests a sort of stand-up, manage-your-own plate-and-such buffet, outdoors.

It turned out to be a huge success, and was soon copied by other hosts and hostesses, so we are told. The outdoor picnic or barbecue is still a favorite on our coast, even though air conditioning has caused many to retreat indoors.

The Father of Our Country, also, mentioned barbecues in his journals, referring to large, outdoor gatherings, political or otherwise, at which meats roasted over an open fire were usually served. Our barbecue feasts today range from small gatherings around the barbecue grill or pit to larger parties.

In today's inflationary or whatever "flationary" times, perhaps there won't be many hosts roasting huge cuts of meat and such, but there are many other tasty ways to celebrate - such as chicken or hamburgers - or that favorite of mine, seafood.

So fond am I of charcoal grilled seafood that I sometimes "charcoal bucket" small amounts when I'm too lazy to fire up the larger grill or am supping solo, but still hungry for that special taste!

Sometimes I grill or bake the fish or shrimp or crabs in foil atop the grill, at other times I use grill baskets, at still other times I lay the fish or whatever directly on the grill. Whatever way, it's delicious. So, here's:

BARBECUED CRABS

Marinate cleaned crabs (break the bodies in half, of course, in sauce of your choice (I prefer a simple melted butter, chopped fresh parsley, white wine, and dashes of Tabasco sauce and lemon and pepper.)

Put the crabs on the grill, brush with the sauce, and watch carefully - for, as you know, fish, crabs and shrimp cook quickly - and the cardinal sin of seafood cookery is overcooking!

Serve with lots of hot French bread or rolls for "mopping up!" And, here's another easy and good seafood marinade: Combine a cup of beer, a couple of tablespoons of Worcester sauce; a goodly splash of Tabasco and a tablespoon of fresh lemon juice with one-third of a cup of oil and a one-third cup of vinegar, and pepper, salt and herbs of your choice. Or, take the easy way out and open a bottle of Italian salad dressing or barbecue sauce, if you opt for the tomato taste.

Choctaw Indians issue invitation

The New Year is about to begin. Not in some exotic, far-away country, but right here at home. The Choctaw Indians, once the sole inhabitants of most of Mississippi, honor an ancient tradition whereby the new year began at the ripening of the first-corn of the season. For those without green thumbs, that is about the first of July each year.

The occasion was known by several names, according to which historian one may be reading: The New Corn Ceremony, The New Fire Ceremony, and The Green Corn Ceremony. But, by all accounts, the five-day event celebrated the arrival of a new year. It also served to reconcile the lunar and solar calendars.

Today the grand event has been shortened to four days (because the calendar adjustment is no longer necessary) and it goes by the all-American prosaic name: Choctaw Indian Fair. It is a grand amalgamation of all that goes into a county fair and much that was the ancient ceremony. In all, it is a remarkable cultural event.

It was Chief of the Choctaws, Phillip Martin, speaking, "This year we want to invite the interested public in Mississippi and adjoining States to celebrate with us."

The tribe has much to celebrate! The Choctaws were long a depressed, third-world-like enclave in the remnant of their homeland—an 18,000 acre reservation in east-central Mississippi. Now, by all accounts, the tribe is the leader among Indians in economic development.

It operates four industrial plants in the central Pearl River community in Neshoba County; recently opened a plant in contiguous Leake County; and is nearing completion of another plant in the John C. Stennis Industrial park in Kemper County.

Indian tribes come from across the nation to learn how the Choctaws have accomplished their own rejuvenation. The State Department often brings heads-of-state from foreign countries who are also desirous of learning the successful Choctaw techniques. In fact, the Chinese Deputy Director for Minority Peoples will be in attendance for two days.

Visitors to the Fair will get to see where the Choctaw plants are located—just off Highway 16 west of Philadelphia, 6 miles. That is where abundant parking is located and where the Choctaw Transit Authority shuttle buses load visitors for the fairgrounds.

"We will have plenty of dancing, Indian shows of all kinds, a midway for the kids, plus our Museum and exhibits," Chief Martin pointed out. "You know, our ballgame is the oldest field sport—probably in the world—and we are combining it with the fair so visitors can see a game every day."

Martin, the architect of Choctaw economic development, said everyone is welcome to participate in the grand event.

"We have air-conditioned buildings," Martin continued, "lots of food on the grounds, handicrafts of many tribes and good country music shows. So come on 'Ho minti!'—to our fair, July 9 through 12—if you want to hear the Choctaw language and make friends of the first people to call America home."

HARVARD FELLOWSHIP — Ms. Ann Allen of Bay St. Louis, principal of Bay Catholic Elementary, has been named a Lindhurst Foundation Fellowship recipient to attend a summer institute beginning July 6 on "The Principal and School Improvement" at Harvard Graduate School of Education. Only 100 school leaders were chosen from private, parochial and public schools throughout the country to participate, and a smaller number were named scholarship recipients. The institute will address fundamental questions related to school improvement. She has served as Principal at Bay Catholic Elementary for the past two years.

Construction inspection shortage may jeopardize highway funds

JACKSON—The Mississippi State Highway Department has been forced to reduce its number of full-time employees by 100 and its number of part-time employees by 294 as the result of action taken by the Mississippi Legislature in special session.

The legislature met May 28-June 1 to discuss a means of funding for the department, since the department was left without an appropriation when the regular session ended in April.

The reduction in staff will have adverse effects on maintenance and construction in the future and could very possibly hamper construction already in progress.

John Sullivan, division administrator, Federal Highway Administration, said the reduction in staff may mean that the department would not have adequate inspectors on its construction sites.

"If they don't have adequate inspectors on the job, then there's a question of how we can pay," Sullivan said.

"If there is no one out there to oversee the construction, I have no assurance that the work is being done according to specifications," he said.

Sullivan explained that during former Gov. William Winter's administration the department received FHWA notification that adequate inspectors were not being provided on construction jobs.

The reason for this lack of inspectors was a shortage in staff. As the result, the department was granted permission from the governor's office to hire an additional 21 people.

Even though the department was granted permission to increase its staff, the number of full-time and part-time employees has shown an increase only six times during the last 12 years.

According to personnel records, the largest increase occurred in April.

Livestock dealers agree to suspension and penalty

WASHINGTON — A U. S. Department of Agriculture official said today that Thurman Guillott and Joe Mack Smith, doing business as Monk Cattle Co., at Poplarville, have agreed to a suspension of business and a $350 civil penalty.

B. H. (Bill) Jones, head of USDA's Packers and Stockyards Administration, said they agreed to the penalties to settle charges of doing business as livestock dealers and order buyers without a bond.

Jones said Guillott and Smith bought livestock at auction markets in southern Mississippi and southeastern Louisiana.

June 1982 when the department's number of employees increased by 109, with the largest decrease in staff occurring in 1976 at 485 employees. Since June 30, 1975, the department's total number of employees has decreased by 1,049.

In June 1985, the department showed employment of 3,227 full-time and part-time employees. As of June 9, 1986, the number of employees on hand was 2,849, a decrease of 378 employees.

In agreeing to the suspension, plus a cease and desist order, they neither admitted nor denied the federal administrative charges filed by USDA last November under authority of the Packers and Stockyards (P&S) Act.

The cease and desist order, similar to a permanent injunction, was issued to insure future compliance with the P&S Act.

The P&S Act is an antitrust, fair trade practice and payment protection law. It is designed to maintain integrity in the marketing of livestock, poultry and meat, and economic law and order in the marketplace.

Sailors beware: Look up and Live!

Coast Catamaran, makers of Hobie Cat sailboats, and Mississippi Power Company are hoisting safety awareness for sailors.

The Gulfport-based utility and the sailboat manufacturer are offering safety programs and incentives designed to protect sailors from the potential danger of metal masts coming in contact with overhead power lines.

"We're concerned with saving lives, preventing injury and avoiding property damage," Arthur Morrison, Mississippi Power Company's Manager of Claims said. "Sailors can be in danger on the land as well as in the water if they are not aware of the potential trouble a power line poses to a metal mast."

When a metal mast touches a power line, the electric current flows through the mast and anything or anyone in contact with the boat. The current seeks out the easiest path to the ground, including an arm or foot of any person touching the sailboat. The most common forms of injury associated with electrocution are severe burns, loss of appendages and cardiac arrest which results from the electric current altering the heart rate.

Beginning this year, new Hobie Cat and Holder single hull boats will be fitted with special masts topped with nonconductive fiberglass. Coast Catamaran will also retrofit all previous sailboat models with the new nonconductive mast top, free of charge, even if the boat is not held by the original owner.

Mississippi Power Company's one-hour safety program guides boat users to be wary of electric wires, details what to do in dangerous situations and tells sailors how to safely transport sailboats with metal masts.

Mississippi Power Company also distributes safety stickers for sailors to attach to their masts, giving them a reminder to be on the lookout for power lines.

Since the advent of taller, aluminum masts, an estimated 8 to 10 sailors are killed or seriously injured every year in power line related accidents. However, these statistics are considered to be low because the U.S. Coast Guard only records sailing accidents in navigable waters.

A number of accidents occur in parking lots near launching ramps. Several deaths and injuries have occurred when operators of smaller sailboats pick up their boats and carry them to a non-designated launching area to avoid long lines on landing ramps.

Fortunately, southeast Mississippi has not been the site of an accident involving a sailboat and power line since 1983.

"Sailors appear to be taking heed of the dangers of overhead power lines," said Morrison. "But electrical lines have become such an integral part of the skyline that people sometimes forget they exist."

If any group or organization is interested in participating in this free safety program, they may contact Morrison at Mississippi Power Company at 865-5336.

Army engineers invite vacationers to explore Tombigbee Lakes

MOBILE, Ala.—There are some 400 miles of lakes and rivers to explore in the recreation area known as the Black Warrior and Tombigbee Lakes, managed by the Mobile District, U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Located just outside Demopolis, four miles below the confluence of the Black Warrior and Tombigbee Rivers is the Demopolis Lake, largest, most-visited lake in the system.

It extends 53 miles upriver on the Black Warrior and 49 miles on the Tombigbee with a total surface area of 10,000 acres.

In addition to the standard day use facilities, the corps maintains tent and trailer camping areas with comfort stations at four locations.

The standard day use areas have boat launch ramps, comfort stations, drinking water and picnic areas.

Camping areas are Foscue Campground with 30 sites equipped with electricity and 15 sites without electric hookups; Forland Campground with 32 all-electric hookup sites.

Picnic tables, campfire rings, grills, lantern holders, trash cans and water hookups are provided.

Also each campground has water-borne toilet facilities with showers and laundry.

There are also dump stations located at both campgrounds.

Camping fees are $8 a night with electric hookup and $6 without.

Foscue Park day use area has two ballfields, playground, walking trail, and two pavilions for groups only.

A reservation is required, and there is a $10 user fee.

Runaway 2 Park offers camping at $4 with no electric hookups.

Lock 5 Park is a free camping area with no electric hookups.

A temperate climate and something for every season make the Demopolis area a year-round place to visit.

Those who like to fish find the lake and its numerous tributaries abound in bream, crappie, bass and hybrid stripers.

The region around the lake also is excellent hunting territory. The Corps manages 1,800 acres for public hunting and leases another 3,600 acres to the Alabama Department of Conservation.

Wildlife and forest management programs have enhanced the habitat in these areas. Turkey, deer, dove and small game, such as squirrel and rabbit, are plentiful.

A winter season event which attracts thousands to Demopolis is "Christmas on the River." This is a nighttime parade on the river viewed from the high white bluffs which rise above the Tombigbee River at Downtown Demopolis.

Amidst a spectacular display of fireworks, a procession of boats pull floats lighted and animated to depict the holiday season past the crowds.

The parade ends with the arrival of Santa Claus aboard the last float.

Warrior Lake contains eight public use areas with the standard day use facilities. Three areas are designated for camping. None have electric hookups.

A camping fee of $4 is collected at Lock 8 and Jennings Ferry Park.

Lock 7 East Park is a free camping area.

Warrior is located on Highway 69 from Greensboro to Tuscaloosa. Old Highway 11 and 43 may be used to reach the lake from the west side. The lake is six miles from Eutaw, Ala.

Oliver Lake is located within the city of Tuscaloosa, is nine miles long, is generally confined within the banks of the original river, and covers about 1,000 acres.

Boat launching and day use areas are recreational facilities available here.

Holt Lake is about 10 miles north of Tuscaloosa and can be reached from State Road 216. The west side is accessible from Rice Mine Road.

Holt Lake contains nine public use areas. Six have boat launch ramps and the standard day use facilities.

There are three public beaches and one pavilion for groups only. Reservation is required, and there is a $10 user fee.

There are three designated camping areas: Blue Creek, Deerlick and Rocky Branch. Rocky Branch is a primitive campground, and there is a $4 camper fee.

The Deerlick, Rocky Branch and Bankhead parks are open from Mar. 1 through Nov. 1. All other public use areas are open year round.

Captain Bob's Marina is located at Rock Quarry Park furnishing gas, groceries, bait and boat rentals. For more information on Holt Lake call (205) 553-9373.

Bankhead Lake lies 31 river miles below Port Birmingham in a mountainous region of Alabama. The nearby lock was blasted out of rock when the structure was modernized several years ago.

The new lock has the highest lift of those on the Black Warrior-Tombigbee system with a 69-foot lift. Alabama Power Company also has a hydro-electric generating plant at Bankhead Dam.

There is considerable private development on the lake. The Corps has constructed and maintains a day use area on the east bank of the river near the lock and dam.

Facilities include an overlook, comfort stations, picnic tables under shelters, and drinking water.

A fishing deck with a comfort station and ample parking is located immediately downstream of the lock structure.

At the southernmost end of the system is Coffeetown Lake, about 23 miles west of Jackson, Ala., off State Road 69.

It is the second largest lake in the system with a surface area of 8,800 acres and a length of 97 miles.

Corps-operated facilities include eight public use areas with the standard day use facilities. Three of these are designated for camping: Service, Lock 3 and Lock 2. None have electric hookups. There is no fee for camping.

These lakes and rivers afford campers, water enthusiasts and sportsmen many hours of outdoor enjoyment.

What's more they wind through some of the nation's history-rich heartland. In Demopolis explore the old cemetery where rest some of the early French settlers of the Vine and Olive Colony. Visit stately mansions from those early days.

Near Bankhead you're in coal mining country. At Oliver you're in Tuscaloosa, home of the University of Alabama, where a popular attraction is Denny Chimes, a 115-foot bell tower which raises its spire high above the campus.

Midway between Warrior Lake and Tuscaloosa's two lakes, Holt and Oliver, is Mound State Monument. Here 40 Indian temple mounds rise from a bluff overlooking the Black Warrior River.

They are remnants of a peace-loving tribe that flourished about 1400 A.D. The mounds range in height to 58 feet, and the area is maintained by the State of Alabama as a state park featuring a village site, burial grounds and a museum.

Near Coffeetown is St. Stephens,

Alabama's territorial capital and first state capital. Also, the William Weatherford Monument is located southeast of Coffeetown Lake near the Alabama River.

Weatherford was half-Scottish, half-Creek, and also used the name Red Eagle. During the War of 1812 he and two other Indians led a band of Creeks in one of the most brutal massacres in American history, the Massacre at Fort Mims.

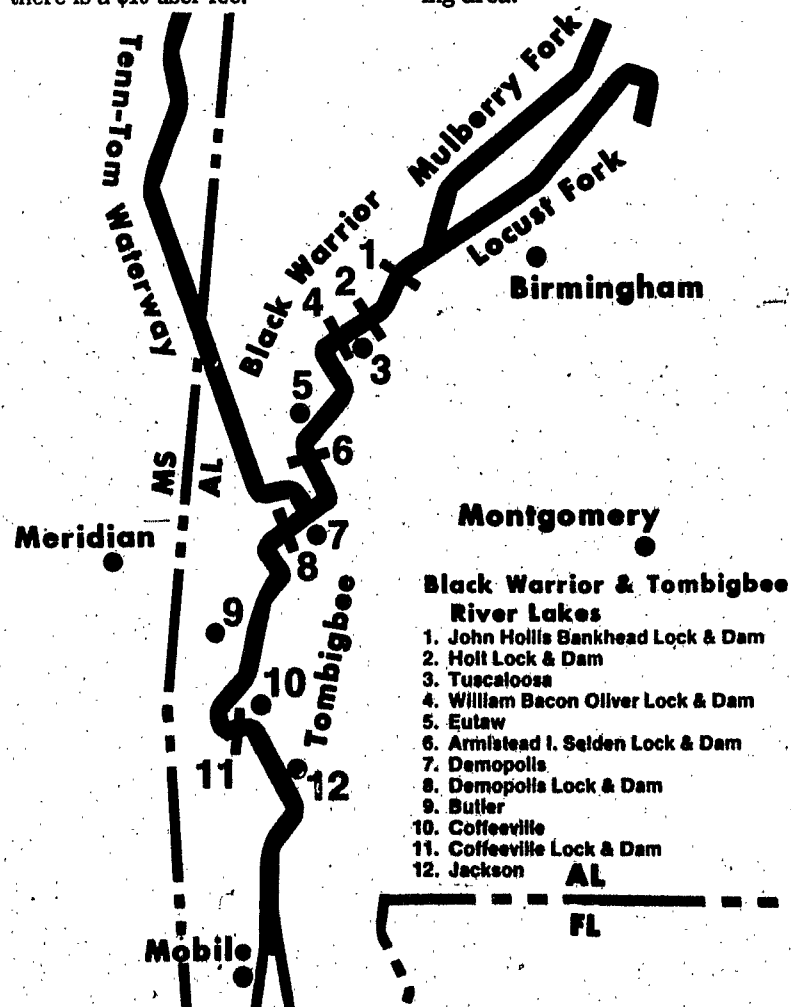

For specific information on the lakes call (205) 289-3540.

Water sports are big on the Black Warrior-Tombigbee River Lakes.

Families enjoy the serenity of camping on the Black Warrior-Tombigbee River Lakes.

Strong resigns as wildlife director

JACKSON—Lon Strong has resigned as executive director of the Mississippi Department of Wildlife Conservation to accept a position with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service in Jackson. The resignation becomes effective Sept. 4.

Strong has been executive director of the state wildlife agency since 1981. Prior to that appointment he had directed the agency's Bureau of Administration. His career with the department began in 1966 when he was hired as waterfowl biologist for the old Game and Fish Commission. "The commission feels that Lon's resignation is a loss not only to the department of Wildlife Conservation, but to the entire state," said Joseph Gex OF Bay St. Louis, chairman of the Commission on Wildlife Conservation.

"He has had the respect of the true conservationists and sportsmen of Mississippi, and the wildlife populations and progressive management programs we have here are a result of his leadership," stated Gex.

The commission, which is responsible for filling the top-level vacancy, has appointed Bill Quisenberry III of Clinton as acting executive director. Quisenberry is currently the director of the Bureau of Administration and has been with the department since 1967.

"We couldn't have found a better man in the agency to take over as acting executive director," said Gex. "We know Bill will do a wonderful job and that the department will continue to run smoothly during his tenure as acting director."

The commission plans to advertise the position for 60 days and to fill the vacancy within 90 days.

"Those are our plans now, but we'll take as much time as necessary to find the right man to lead the agency and the state in our wildlife and fisheries programs," added Gex.

Ladner to speak

HATTIESBURG—Coach J. Larry Ladner, assistant professor of athletic administration and coaching, will be a featured speaker during an upcoming coaches convention in Georgia.

Ladner will address the Georgia Athletic Coaches Convention on the "Qualities of a Successful Coach." The convention is planned for July 16-18 in Atlanta.

A former Picayune Memorial High School head coach, Ladner posted a record of 253 wins and 82 losses as he built the Maroon Tide into a state basketball power. Since joining USM in 1971, Ladner has served as a clinician through the southeastern United States and abroad.

For the past 10 years, Ladner has directed a successful basketball coaching seminar on the USM campus and annually coordinates a turkey-hunting seminar begun four years ago.

Ladner is a native of Kiln and is married to the former Peggy Ann Willoughby of Poplarville. He is the son of Mrs. Earl E. Ladner Sr. of Kiln.

SPORTS from the Pressbox

For John Tudor of the St. Louis Cardinals, 1985 was the kind of year, statistically speaking, that most Major League pitchers dream about. He had a record of 21 wins against only 8 losses. Also at one stretch, he pitched a string of 20 wins in 21 decisions; 10 of them by shutout with a 1.93 earned run average. But is he happy?

After a victory in the League Championship Series, and two wins in the World Series, including one shutout in Game 4, he should have been, but wasn't.

After the Cardinals' 11-0 loss to the Kansas City Royals in Game 7 of the World Series, Tudor had to be taken to the hospital because he injured his pitching hand by punching an electric fan in the team's clubhouse, obviously out of frustration. Not to belabor the point, but after Game 4 he dared a reporter from the Los Angeles Times to take a swing at him. Now that's frustration!

Until last season, maintaining privacy was not at all a problem for John Tudor. He was always a good pitcher, but never a noteworthy one. Before 1985, he compiled a respectable 51-43 record with four shutouts. Before being traded to the Pittsburgh Pirates for Mike Easler, he posted 13 wins in each of the 1982 and 1983 seasons for the Boston Red Sox.

While pitching for Chuck Tanner's hapless Pirates, Tudor came up with a mediocre 12-11 season. Though he was pitching slightly over 500 ball, those numbers were very deceiving. During nine of his eleven losses, the Pirates scored two or less runs.

I guess Whitey Herzog, manager of the Cardinals, noticed the deceptiveness of those numbers as well. He literally stole Tudor from the Pirates for outfielder George Hendrick and catcher Steve Barnard. Mr. Herzog second guessed himself. I'm sure, when Tudor got off to a 1-7 start. But that was the end of the bad news. By the end of the season, he had established himself as one of baseball's premier pitchers.

As far as this year is concerned, expect more of the same. The only difference is that he hasn't gotten off to a 1-7 start, so how many games can he win, 25?

St. Clare Drama Club presents children's stories in plays

The St. Clare Drama Club raised the curtain on its first production of the 1985-86 season. The club opened membership to students from K-8. The response was tremendous.

The students meet once a week after school to rehearse and prepare for the upcoming plays.

Because of the increase in membership the club expanded the number of plays performed.

Students acted in "Murder at Mother Goose's Place," "Night of the Trolls," "Tom Sawyer," "Pinocchio Goes to School," "Three Golden Hairs" and "Rumpelstiltskin."

Jesse Hays (Pinocchio) tells Chris Grussendorf (Gipetto) that he hates school in the play "Pinocchio Goes to School."

Meeting on the road, Ryan LaFontaine and Marie Louise Phillips discuss plans to outwit the evil trolls with Adam Butsch and his sidekick Bear (Mark Carter). This action takes place in the play "Night of the Trolls."

The robbers read a note that is meant for the queen in the play "Three Golden Hairs." Members of the robbers band are Ellen Felder, Michelle Kendrick, Joy Bordages, Ginger Felder and Hailey Bilbo.

Day Hays, Thelma Hearn, Jamie Bordages and Kelli Murray lament the disappearance of Tom in the play "Tom Sawyer."

In "Pinocchio Goes to School" Nikki Chapman (the Blue Fairy) comes to the rescue of Jesse Hays (Pinocchio) as he's caught in another lie.

Photos by Mary Alice Fayard

Jamie Butsch (Detective Armstrong) interrogates James Wadsworth (Jack-be-nimble) in "Murder at Mother Goose's Place."

Summer Black, Gina Bridges, Stacy O'Brien and Brad Besse admire the new prince in the play "Rumpelstiltskin."

Your Pet's Health

When Choosing A Dog Consider Temperament

By Robert K. McDonald
Assistant Professor
College of Veterinary Medicine
Mississippi State University

As a veterinarian, I am often consulted concerning the type of dog a family should purchase. In some ways, choosing a dog is like choosing a family car. You can pick from a variety of types and sizes, and you'll find one that is just right for you and your children.

One important difference is that a dog is a living being whose life your family will shape and share. You're likely to have your dog more than twice as long as you own your car so you should give the selection of your new companion a lot of careful thought.

Some important things to consider in selecting a dog are the ages and personalities of your children, and the breed, temperament and age of the dog.

Children under age two are too young to enjoy a dog very much.

Very young children are also more likely to be bitten by a dog by unintentionally annoying or hurting the dog. After age two, children are more capable of enjoying a dog's companionship.

But the question is, "What kind of dog should I purchase?" There are no foolproof guidelines on which breed is best for children. One study showed that various kinds of retrievers, collies and other sporting breeds ranked high in trainability. They ranked low in reactivity which included snapping at children, excitability and barking.

I must warn you that individual dogs vary regardless of breed. Many mutts of questionable ancestry have become well-behaved family dogs.

Another consideration is what age dog should you obtain. Puppies are often the most desirable since their personalities are shaped as they grow up with the children. A young pup grows up with the children, and the children should help train and care for the pup.

The pup learns early that the adults and the children in the family are dominant over him. How much your child can help care for a dog depends on his or her age and maturity. By age eight, a responsible child can be the dog's primary care giver and can feed, exercise and groom him.

A dog can be your child's best friend. A dog's faithfulness is one of the most important gifts to a child, so give the selection of your new companion a lot of careful thought.

MUSCLE SPASMS

Violent, involuntary contractions of a muscle or group of muscles initiate the painful condition of muscle spasms. They can occur in almost any muscle of the body. Most frequently they occur in the back, neck, stomach or bladder. Even the involuntary twitching of the eye lids, or facial muscles is associated with muscle spasm. The jingle or riddle of their cause has been solved. As it has been shown that the majority of all muscle spasms are caused by nerve root pressure, even though there can be other aggravating factors, injections, muscle relaxants and traction are measures which give temporary relief but contribute little to the correction of the basic cause of nerve pressure. A Chiropractic examination, necessary, will permit the correction of the majority of these conditions. Prompt attention in this matter usually brings prompt results.

Scout camp receives top national rating

The New Orleans Area Council's Salem Scout Reservation near Sellers in Hancock County received a nationally accredited "A" rating for 1986.

Regional representatives made an objective review of the camp's operation and facilities as well as a complete appraisal of the staff and program.

Mandatory standards apply to items such as tested drinking water, milk supply, refrigeration, physical exams, medical inspections, health log, latrines, waste disposal, state and local permits, licenses and sanitary inspections.

The camp has 1,400 acres of rolling hills and pine trees.

Scouts do wilderness camping and sleep in two-man tents, in well-spaced patrol areas.

For more information, contact the Scout Service Center at 1-504-885-8800 or any scoutmaster.

Bay school to sue city

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District board plans to file suit against the City of Bay St. Louis to obtain funds for purchase of modular classrooms.

The board agreed on a split vote Thursday to file the suit on the recommendation of Board Attorney Lucien Gex, rejecting Superintendent Roger Oge's recommendation that the district find an interim facility for kindergarten while a long-range building program is implemented.

Board Member J. Cyril Glover made the motion to sue and Board President Betty Diboll seconded. Glover, Diboll and Reginald Robinson voted for the motion while L.D. Carter voted against it and Linda Penrose abstained.

Penrose abstained because her employer is Board Attorney Lucien Gex, retained in the motion to handle the litigation along with the Gulfport firm Bryant, Stennis and Colingo.

A motion by Carter to accept the recommendation by Oge died for lack of a second.

Oge had proposed five alternatives, which included the interim facilities recommendation as well as construction of a permanent kindergarten building designed by Architect Jules LaGarde but previously rejected by the board; seeking relief from the State Department of Education to delay implementation of kindergarten; suing and delaying the order for the modules; and suing and not delaying the order.

St. Rose de Lima School was the only possible interim facility specifically named.

In explaining why he recommended that the board sue, Gex stated that he feels the issue is no longer over whether the district should house kindergarten classes in trailers or a permanent building.

"There is a fundamental issue here that I believe is larger than the question of whether to go with portable classrooms or a permanent
